QUESTIONS REGARDING “LOCATE”

- ◆ Can State and Federal location efforts be made at the same time?

YES. The State can initiate a search to the State Parent Locator, another jurisdiction (State) and to the Federal Parent Locator Services all at the same time.

- ◆ What if I don't have the Social Security Number?

Social Security Numbers are now required on applications (not on the licenses themselves). The applications for professional licenses, drivers' licenses, occupational and recreational licenses, and marriage licenses; on divorce records, support orders, and paternity determinations or acknowledgments; and on death records.

- ◆ What if the non-custodial parent cannot be found locally?

Our Office will ask the State Parent Locator Service (SPLS) to do the search. If the SPLS finds the parent has moved to another state, that state will be asked to do a search as well as sending a request to the Federal Parent Locator Service (FPLS).

- ◆ The father of my child is in the military, but I don't know where he is stationed. Can the Child Support Program find him?

YES. The Federal Parent Locator Service can provide the current duty station of a parent who is in any of the uniformed services.

LOVE AND SUPPORT YOUR CHILD

There is clear and convincing evidence that children benefit greatly if both parents are actively involved in their lives. It is critical to children as they grow and develop. Mothers and fathers bring different, but equally important, qualities to their children.

Children need safe places to live, nourishing food, education, and a solid foundation of values. Bringing a child into the world means making a commitment to care for him or her throughout childhood—ensuring the best possible environment to grow in.
